UK's Leading Management Consultants Awards 2023

---

For the 5th year running, Accelerating Experience is included in the Financial Times' UK's Leading Management Consultants list.

We feature in the consulting services category:

People and Performance

It's great there's a place for specialist boutiques in the Awards; and again we find ourselves in the company of global household name players in this category.

The list is formed from Consultants' clients' and peer recommendations, and is compiled by the FT in association with Statista, the data company.

Thank you to everyone who's been part of this shared success, particularly our clients who've kindly endorsed the lasting benefits we bring and the business results we help them achieve.

Turbulent times seem unending: to the list of recent seismic shocks and uncertainties, the war in Europe and the cost of living crisis are the latest additions for business leaders to navigate. Fresh challenges for success emerge: economic uncertainty with inflationary, operational and commercial pressures; new people and staffing challenges too, including a changing employer-employee relationship at its heart.

Supporting business leaders individually and collectively, finding new ways of working, getting the best out of all their people to grasp market opportunities and raise their business performance. That's what we do.

It's a business winning strategy with a huge prize.

Accelerating Experience is a multi award-winning Business Performance and Leadership Consultancy.

Our network of consultants combines high level business leadership experience with an uncompromising focus on driving tangible value creation. Taking a tailored, mentoring approach to every client relationship, we work with leadership teams large and small to improve organisational performance in a way that lasts. With clients in international organisations, major partnerships and private equity backed companies, we've helped to create extra value in the 100s of £millions.
